Kakolo is a remote village in the Zambian bush, 10 miles from the main Lusaka – Kitwe road not far from Kitwe itself. It took 1 hour to do these 10 miles, the photo of the 'road' bears no resemblance to the actual hazardness of the journey!

I was a 'hang on for dear life' job most of the time and David, our very experienced driver negotiated the tracks with amazing skill so as not to cause the vehicles to roll over.

This is Kakolo village with the old school building, the new school building, nearing completion and the villagers who guarded the new equipment at gunpoint!!

All this equipment
road by truck!!

came up the same Glad we didn't have to deliver it...

We thank all our volunteers both in the UK and in Zambia who helped donate, collect, load and unload so that these children could have a chance at education!! Thank you, we hope these faces say it all to you, because they say 'thank you for a chance in life...we were not forgotten after all'

What A Future!

Our sincere thanks to you all; our trip to see all the equipment in place and meet the staff and children was a privilege...and an honour to be able to bless them.
